Rebecca Atkins has a Bachelor of Arts in Film and Animation. She spent several years teaching animation at Huntington University and assistant producing the short film Fire Flower. She has also done curriculum illustration for Science for Mermaids and Leading Ladies. As a 12-year-old homeschooler, Rebecca found herself in Mrs. Gorby's writing class, where her creative spirit was constantly encouraged. Years later when Mrs. Gorby approached her with her dream of a Grammar Castle, Rebecca quickly agreed to join the adventure.

and the Kingdom of Writing

In the coloring book, meet the people that live in Grammar Castle and the good and bad knights of the Kingdom of Writing. Coloring allows all ages to be creative and to memorize the roles of this metaphorical kingdom. For example, coloring Queen Noun's dress red reminds students that Queen Noun loves ❤️ people. Coloring King Verb's clothing green reminds students that he is on the go. A younger student can enjoy coloring while older students are learning the parts of speech. Have fun going on adventures in our little Kingdom of Writing.
